Challenge! Athletes-Team Members- Fans- Facing Tomorrow Together!

TAKASHIMA CITY, SHIGA PREFECTURE, JAPAN, May 23, 2025

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Japanese singer MOMO (momokarin) announces the official release of a new song, "WIN TOGETHER," an original anthem designed to uplift athletes and their supporters across all sports. With this release, MOMO is also exploring opportunities for international agency representation, management, and brand collaborations.

The inspiration for the song dates back to March 2024, when MOMO attended the MLB opening game in Seoul.

Moved by a high-profile incident involving Shohei Ohtani, he began performing "WIN TOGETHER" acapella in support of the Dodgers. As momentum grew throughout the 2024 season - including their World Series victory - MOMO developed a full band version, which was released at the start of the 2025 season.

"WIN TOGETHER" was intentionally composed as a long-term sports anthem, featuring lyrics and melodies applicable across various sporting contexts. In addition to baseball, MOMO has also used the song to support martial arts and other competitions.

MOMO, now over 60 years old, has set a personal goal:

"To one day sing 'WIN TOGETHER' in center field at Dodger Stadium, before Shohei Ohtani and Yoshinobu Yamamoto retire."

With no staff, he has launched this solo project while continuing to work full-time. Born with a congenital disability in his right leg, MOMO has undergone rehabilitation since childhood and continues to train to maintain independence and performance. These life experiences—along with his passion for cheering on others—are deeply embedded in the message of the song.

The song is available in both English and Japanese, with its LA version receiving over 1.7 million views to date. MOMO also welcomes performance invitations and collaborative opportunities worldwide.
