The annual Investing into Tomorrow Dinner and Silent Auction, held on April 5, 2025, brought together more than 120 attendees for an evening focused on education, community engagement, and student opportunity. The event raised $18,000 in total, with approximately $14,000 in net proceeds directed to benefit students at the Keller Center for Advanced Learning (KCAL).

The cowboy-themed gathering featured attractions such as a mechanical bull, bounce house, and axe throwing, alongside a meal prepared by students from the KCAL Culinary Arts program. Guests included local supporters, community leaders, and KCAL students, who also contributed to the event's operations.

Event expenses, totaling approximately $4,000, were limited to rentals, activities, and other logistical needs. All planning and coordination efforts were donated, with no compensation issued to organizers, ensuring that all proceeds could be used to support KCAL programs and students directly.

"This event highlights the strong commitment of the community to education and hands-on student development," said a representative from the organizing committee. "The involvement of KCAL students in preparing and managing aspects of the evening was a powerful demonstration of applied learning in action."

Feedback on the event—including suggestions related to logistics, food service, volunteer coordination, and programming—is currently being collected to inform planning for the 2026 event.
