

CSR Europe Announces 2025 European Sustainable Industry Summit in Mechelen, Belgium

CSR Europe 2025 Summit unites CSOs, business, and policy leaders to turn sustainability into competitive advantage for Europe's industries.

BELGIUM, May 21, 2025

/EINPresswire.com/ -- CSR Europe is pleased to announce the European Sustainable Industry Summit 2025, which will take place on 24–25 June at the Lamot Congress and Heritage Centre, in Mechelen, Belgium.

The European Sustainable Summit 2025

This year's Summit, themed "Turning Sustainability into a Business Advantage", will bring together more than 200 Chief Sustainability Officers (CSOs), corporate decision-makers, EU policymakers, and civil society stakeholders to explore how sustainability can enhance competitiveness, support innovation, and unlock long-term value.

“

This is not just another conference—it is a critical moment to refocus the sustainability agenda on business performance and impact.”

Stefan Crets, Executive Director of CSR Europe.

At a time when European industries are facing accelerating climate demands, digital transitions, and rising global competition, the Summit provides an opportunity to align sustainability leadership with practical business strategy. Topics will include smarter policy design, circular economy integration, and public-private cooperation in driving the just transition.

A key moment during the event will be the unveiling of the CSO Network's Discussion Paper on Better Regulation and Implementation, which presents targeted proposals based on interviews with CSOs from across Europe. This new publication builds on CSR Europe's existing Business Vision and Actionable Recommendations report to support effective, business-informed regulation.
