“Earning ACQ accreditation demonstrates Kaleidoscope Behavior Analysis & Therapy's commitment to quality, evidence-based care; strong ethics; and continuous improvement,” said Julie Adcock, founder and executive director of Kaleidoscope Behavior Analysis & Therapy. “Every day, our dedicated team lives our core values of kindness, brilliance, accountability, and teamwork—leading to the best possible outcomes for families.”

Kaleidoscope Behavior Analysis & Therapy provides individualized, evidence-based ABA to children with autism, focused on fostering growth, independence, and meaningful outcomes. Its team works collaboratively to develop tailored treatment plans that address each child's unique needs, focusing on skill development, behavior reduction, and overall quality of life.

In addition to direct therapy, it offers caregiver support, offers parent training, and works closely with schools and community partners to ensure consistent, coordinated care across all settings.

"People with autism deserve high-quality ABA services," said Erick Dubuque, director of ACQ.

"Organizations applying for accreditation from the Autism Commission on Quality must meet rigorous standards for patient care, administration, and transparency. Kaleidoscope Behavior Analysis & Therapy underwent a thorough review process to earn its accreditation."

ACQ's review process includes a wide range of business, clinical, and quality improvement activities to promote best practices and evidence-based pathways. The assessment considers clinical observations and satisfaction surveys from patients and staff, leadership interviews, and a desktop review.

ACQ continues to accept new applications for its two-year accreditation from organizations offering ABA as a healthcare service to individuals with autism.
