Lucideon, known for its expertise in materials science and R&D support across the healthcare, aerospace, nuclear, energy and construction industries, faced a significant challenge: its legacy library and abstract database systems were outdated and unable to support online access to critical research materials. The company needed an accessible, modern, secure and intuitive platform to consolidate its World Ceramics Abstracts database, traditional library materials and digital documents.

After extensive research, Lucideon selected Soutron Global to deliver a custom, scalable and branded Search Portal that would provide:

- Unified access to all knowledge resources through a single portal
- Secure, gated entry for internal staff and technology partners
- Seamless search, retrieval and request functionality for research materials
- Future-ready technology with continuous updates and enhancements

During implementation, the Soutron team worked closely with Caroline Mullington, Information Services & Technology Partnerships Capability Leader at Lucideon, to ensure a smooth transition. The result: an intuitive, customized knowledge platform that transformed the way Lucideon's teams' access and manage information.

"Soutron has been a brilliant, massive step forward for us and is now central to everything we do in the library," says Caroline. "We worked closely with the Soutron team to migrate our materials and build our collection. We've accomplished so much in a short time frame, and that wouldn't have happened without Soutron's support."

The results have been transformative. The newly launched LOIS platform is now fully integrated with Lucideon's internal intranet and offers a self-checkout system for onsite materials, online access to proprietary research papers and a streamlined request process for off-site collections.

With comprehensive usage reports, Lucideon is also gaining valuable insights into how its knowledge resources are utilized, shaping future enhancements and expanding access through new value-added information portals powered by Soutron technology.

"The Soutron team has been incredibly supportive. We couldn't have asked for anything more, and we're thrilled with the final results," says Caroline.
