DC, UNITED STATES, May 19, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The global economy is facing significant challenges as central banks continue to raise interest rates. The U.S. Federal Reserve (Fed) has raised rates by 50 basis points (bp) since July, while the European Central Bank (ECB) has raised rates by 4.25% to 4.50%. This divergence in policy is creating uncertainty in the markets. The ECB has indicated that it will continue to raise rates, while the Fed has signaled that it may pause its rate hikes.

David Barrett, CEO of EBC Financial Group, said, "We are at a crossroads in the global economy. The ECB's aggressive rate hikes have led to a sharp decline in the Eurozone economy, while the Fed's more gradual approach has helped to stabilize the U.S. economy. It remains to be seen how these divergent policies will play out in the coming months."
