This partnership comes at a critical time. In the wake of devastating LA fires and other recent emergencies, first responder families continue to face immense financial and emotional hardship. Rush Tax Resolution, moved by the sacrifices of these heroes, has stepped forward to make a difference. With First Responders Children's Foundation, both companies seek to directly impact the lives of those who protect and serve every day.

The First Responders Children's Foundation has a long history of supporting America's first responder families. For over 23 years, the organization has provided critical financial assistance to children who have lost a parent in the line of duty, as well as to families suffering from significant hardship. Their programs include providing hotel rooms, cash grants, funeral assistance, college scholarships, and holiday toys for children in need.

Rush Tax Resolution's commitment to helping families is a natural extension of its mission. Every day, Rush Tax Resolution helps individuals and businesses solve complex tax problems – from negotiating offers in compromise with the IRS to resolving wage garnishments and lifting tax liens. The company's work lifts financial burdens, restoring peace of mind for those in crisis. The taxpayers rights' - are always Rush Taxes priority.

Through this partnership, Rush Tax Resolution contributes not only funding but also its platform to help raise donations and awareness for the First Responders Children's Foundation. Public service announcements, social media campaigns, and co-branded marketing initiatives will encourage the public to stand with first responder families in their time of need.

Both organizations share a common belief: in times of crisis, a helping hand can change lives. Together, Rush Tax Resolution and the First Responders Children's Foundation are building a future where no first responder's family feels alone or forgotten.
