NY, UNITED STATES, June 2, 2025

/EINPresswire.com/ -- The global air charter services market was valued at USD 46.29 billion in 2023 and is expected to grow from USD 48.19 billion in 2024 to USD 80.65 billion by 2032, registering a CAGR of 6.65% during the forecast period. In 2023, North America dominated the air charter services market with a market share of 33.35%.

Air charter services refer to the leasing or rental of an entire aircraft for personal or business use. Unlike commercial flights, where passengers purchase individual seats, air charters allow clients to book the entire aircraft for transporting passengers or cargo. The market is witnessing significant growth, driven by the rising number of high-net-worth individuals and their increasing demand for luxury, privacy, and travel convenience.

Market Drivers and Restraints:

Increasing Use of Private Charters in Emerging Countries to Fuel Market Growth

An increasing number of emerging countries across the world are availing private charter services due to a wide range of factors. These include rising income of high net-worth individuals and strong economic growth of developing nations in Latin America, Asia Pacific, and certain parts of Africa. Several multinational enterprises are also opting for air charter services to fly in CEOs and other key stakeholders from other states or countries. These aspects are expected to have a positive impact on the air charter services market growth.

However, there are several stringent regulations that aircraft owners have to adhere to, to receive their Certificate of Airworthiness or 'C of A' to become eligible for using their aircraft for private aviation. This factor can hinder the market's progress.

Business Jets Gained Major Traction Due to Rising Demand for Aircraft Modernization Programs

Based on aircraft type, the market is divided into business jet, turboprops, helicopters, and others. The business jet segment dominated the global market in 2023 and might record the fastest growth rate during the forecast period as the demand for aircraft modernization programs and Maintenance, Repair, and Operations (MRO) services is expected to rise in the aviation industry in the coming years.

Growth in Passenger Air Traffic Boosted Use of Air Charter Services in Passenger Aircraft

Based on application, the market is classified into passenger, cargo, and others. The others segment consists of air ambulance and air taxi applications. The passenger segment held the largest global air charter services market share in 2023 as there has been a considerable increase in the passenger air traffic in the last few years.

Rise in Private Air Travel Among Organizations Accelerated Demand for Domestic Air Charter Services

Based on range, the market is classified into domestic and international. The domestic segment captured the biggest market share in 2023 due to a notable rise in domestic corporate air travel, especially after the COVID-19 pandemic era.

With respect to region, the market covers North America, Europe, Asia Pacific, and the rest of the world.

Regional Insights:

North America Led Market Growth Due to Rise in Domestic Air Traffic

North America accounted for the largest global air charter services market share in 2023 as the region is witnessing a notable rise in its annual domestic air traffic every year. Moreover, the U.S. has a large presence of leading market players, which will further contribute to the regional market's growth.

Europe also held a considerable market share in 2023 owing to a robust growth in the region's tourism industry, which will increase the demand for private aviation services.
