Located near Les Vans, a town with deep Huguenot roots, a history of silk weaving, and a rebellious streak dating back to the 18th-century Masques Armés uprising, this region is no stranger to reinvention. Today, it's beloved for eco-tourism, outdoor adventure and slow living.

Whether you dream of opening a boutique retreat, yoga centre, eco-village, or artistic residence, or want a spacious estate for family, friends, or co-ownership, this hamlet offers a once-in-a-generation opportunity to shape something lasting.
