

Jatheon Technologies Announces AI-Enabled Data Archive

Jatheon Technologies, a leader in electronic communications management and archiving, today announced a major Al update to its AWS-based platform.

TORONTO, ONTARIO, CANADA, May 22, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Liya, the new Jatheon Cloud AI assistant, lets users chat with any file or email attachment. Compliance Officers can generate content summaries, get clarifications, request context, or confirm relevance without leaving the archive, shortening ad hoc reviews and approval cycles.

Automated AI classification tags apply Out-of-Office (OOO), newsletter or promotion, and bounce tags automatically to all content. Routine, irrelevant, or non-actionable messages are routed away from review sets, cutting search noise and lowering false-positive rates during audits, FOIA requests, and ediscovery.

Archiving systems are uniquely positioned to soon become corporate brains, and our AI is designed to accelerate review while preserving the audit trail our customers rely on."

Marko Dinic

"Every company racing to adopt AI needs clean, comprehensive data," said Marko Dinic, CEO of Jatheon. "Archiving systems are uniquely positioned to soon become corporate brains, as they already hold a complete mirror of an organization's email, chat, and collaboration traffic. Our AI is designed to accelerate review while preserving the audit trail our customers rely on. The business impact is massive. There is faster FOIA and ediscovery turnaround, as targeted chat threads and cleaner search results help teams meet statutory deadlines with fewer review hours. During investigations or audits, automated tags remove irrelevant messages upfront, allowing reviewers to focus on material evidence instead of filtering by hand.

Jatheon's roadmap includes sentiment analysis to flag potential conduct issues early and proactive alerts that surface unusual spikes in communications before they escalate.
