Expanded business and IT leadership event and community platform adds 100+ regional summits and thousands of CIOs, CISOs and CFOs across the Americas and Europe

CHICAGO, IL, UNITED STATES, May 29, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- CXO Inc., the premier events company empowering business and technology leader collaboration worldwide, today announced that it has acquired the CIOsynergy, secureCISO, and CFO.org

event brands. The strategic acquisition significantly expands CXO Inc.'s reach across the C-suite, adding more than 100 regional summits that convene thousands of Chief Information Officers, Chief Information Security Officers, and Chief Financial Officers across the Americas, Europe, and Asia-Pacific. CXO Inc. cultivates leadership connections, knowledge exchange, and innovation through exceptionally curated regional executive events and experiences.

Bringing CIOsynergy, secureCISO, and CFO.org communities under the CXO Inc. enables us to advance our integrated platform where executives can collaborate, benchmark, and chart the future together.”

Harshil Shah

“Bringing these powerhouse communities under the CXO Inc. umbrella allows us to deliver unparalleled executive insights at the pace modern enterprises require,” said Harshil Shah, CEO and founder of CXO Inc. “Technology, security, and finance leaders face numerous challenges, from AI adoption and cyber resilience to fostering innovation and optimizing capital for digital transformation. By combining our teams, content, and global footprint, we’ll continue to advance our integrated platform where executives can collaborate, benchmark, and chart the future together.”

CIOsynergy, secureCISO, and CFO.org have trusted reputations for high-impact, invitation-only gatherings that feature candid peer discussions, practitioner-led case studies, and informative
