At the core of this innovation is the Klein TRAP-Tank®, which is engineered for maximum safety, asset protection, and performance. Designed with a low center of gravity for superior stability, enhanced visibility for safer operation, and a rugged build for unmatched durability, the TRAP-Tank® redefines efficiency in the toughest environments.

Having placed nearly 200 Kenworth chassis into service since 2019, Klein has solidified its position as the go-to provider of high-value, high-performance water trucks. Working closely with Paccar, the parent company of Kenworth and Peterbilt, Klein has cultivated a 30-year relationship with KW's export department, facilitating seamless global distribution and dealer sales support.

Why This Partnership Matters

□ Unparalleled Performance: The Klein-Kenworth combination delivers industry-leading durability, advanced engineering, and unmatched water tank technology.

□ Turnkey Solutions: Klein receives Kenworth chassis directly from All Roads Trucks, upfits them with precision-engineered water tanks, and makes them immediately available to contractors, public works departments, and large-scale operations.

□ Market-Ready Inventory: From 4x2s, 6x4s, 6x6s, to specialized C500 models, Klein's offering meets the diverse operational needs of Florida's infrastructure, earth-moving, and resource industries.

□ Global Influence, Local Impact: As a trusted name in Kenworth exports, Klein's work extends beyond U.S. borders, ensuring offshore KW dealers can enhance sales by offering turnkey solutions featuring Klein's world-class water tank systems.

Florida's Growing Demand for Kenworth-Klein Equipment

With Florida's infrastructure projects booming and contractors searching for reliable, high-quality water trucks, Klein and All Roads Trucks are stepping up to meet demand. Competitors are actively selling, but Klein is confident that once Florida-based operators experience the superior engineering of a Klein-equipped Kenworth, the decision will be clear.

"This is the right time to make a strong push into Florida," stated Barry McManus, President and CEO of Klein Products. "Our proven success in working with Kenworth, All Roads Trucks, and export dealers shows that demand for high-quality, fully integrated chassis-and-tank solutions is stronger than ever. We are bringing unparalleled value to the contractors, mines, quarries, and public works projects that need the best equipment in the industry."
