

Rising Star Optometry Highlights the Need for Eye Care Services

SAN RAFAEL, CA, UNITED STATES, June 3, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Rising Star Optometry, based in San Rafael, California, emphasizes the critical role of regular eye care in maintaining overall health. With a history spanning over two decades, the clinic offers a range of services addressing both common and specialized vision needs.

Eye Care Services in San Rafael, California

Founded by Dr. David Grisham, a former chief of the Binocular Vision Clinic at UC Berkeley School of Optometry, the practice has evolved under the leadership of Dr. Jeremy Shumaker since 2005. Dr. Shumaker, an experienced optometrist and UC Berkeley graduate, specializes in developmental eye conditions, vision therapy, sports vision, and concussion rehabilitation.

Rising Star Optometry provides services, including routine eye exams, pediatric optometry, vision therapy, and management of conditions such as amblyopia and strabismus. The clinic also offers post-concussion vision rehabilitation and neuro-optometric care for traumatic brain injuries.

The practice has integrated advanced diagnostic technologies like the Optos widefield retinal imaging system, which allows for comprehensive eye examinations without the need for dilation. Additionally, the LifeMeter device is used to assess skin carotenoid levels, providing insights into macular health.

Recognizing the importance of early detection, Rising Star Optometry advocates for regular eye examinations for individuals of all ages. Children, in particular, benefit from early assessments to identify and address vision issues that could impact learning and development.
