A Legacy of Empowering Leaders

Dr. Parrott's vision for CMM World Missions has always focused on empowering local leaders in every region they serve. By providing critical resources and leadership training, CMM equips indigenous leaders to serve their communities effectively. The organization's efforts span far beyond spiritual outreach—encompassing church planting, humanitarian aid, disaster relief, and business development in some of the world's most underserved and persecuted areas.

"Mission work is not a one-time event; it's a lifestyle," explains Dr. Parrott. Through a relationship-driven approach, CMM's focus is on empowering individuals with the tools and knowledge to lead effectively, making a tangible impact in their communities.

CMM College of Theology: Bridging Faith and Education

A key component of CMM's long-term strategy is CMM College of Theology, founded in 2007. The College offers accredited, online theological education accessible to students around the world. Dr. Parrott emphasizes that the College's mission is to integrate faith with practical leadership skills, moving theology "from the head to the heart and into the world." This innovative educational model helps develop leaders who are not only well-versed in scriptural teachings but also equipped with the skills to make a real-world impact.

In this interview, Dr. Parrott shares how CMM College of Theology's global reach and online learning platform have made it possible for students in remote areas to receive high-quality education in the Word, preparing them for leadership roles that transcend cultural and geographical boundaries.

Focus on Prophetic Ministry and Spiritual Leadership

Dr. Parrott's dedication to developing prophetic leaders is one of the cornerstones of CMM's work. Thousands of leaders are trained annually in prophetic ministry, learning to discern divine revelation, exercise spiritual authority, and walk in supernatural power. This focus on spiritual discernment and prophetic activation equips CMM-trained leaders to face both spiritual and practical challenges with confidence and faith.

Through a blend of leadership training, spiritual guidance, and hands-on outreach, CMM is able to transform lives, equipping a new generation of leaders to bring hope, healing, and change to their communities and nations.

A Global Mission Focused on Lasting Change

Dr. Parrott stresses that CMM's work is rooted in Christ's Great Commission to make disciples of all nations. However, their mission goes beyond preaching. By engaging in humanitarian work, CMM tackles real-world issues such as poverty, human trafficking, and spiritual oppression, offering both short-term relief and long-term solutions. Their dedication to empowering local leaders ensures that CMM's efforts are sustainable and have a lasting impact on communities worldwide.
