Sheldon Peters is currently raising capital from accredited investors.

EAST RUTHERFORD, NJ, UNITED STATES, June 3, 2025

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Seasoned real estate investor and business coach Sheldon Peters has announced the launch of a new mergers and acquisitions (M&A) fund dedicated to the home service sector. This fund targets businesses in construction, HVAC, roofing, and other home services industries, focusing on companies with annual revenues between $3 million and $10 million.

Peters sees significant untapped potential in this sector, remarking, "The home service sector is often overlooked, but it is integral to daily life in America. It's a steady industry that's been around for generations, and now it's ready for consolidation. Many smaller companies in this space don't get the attention of large corporations, creating a real opportunity for growth."

With a wealth of experience and more than 1,000 real estate transactions under his belt, Peters is no stranger to the business world. Over his 15-year career, he has mentored and coached countless investors and has ownership stakes in a number of service-oriented businesses. His deep expertise and hands-on experience in the sector uniquely position him to lead this new initiative.

"We're currently raising capital from accredited investors, but we don't have much allocation left." Sheldon Peters added.
