A 39-Year Legacy on Devon Avenue

Delhi Darbar Kabab House, located in Chicago, IL, will celebrate its 39th anniversary on June 10th, 2025. Just saying the name makes your mouth swim, doesn't it?

This Pakistani Indian restaurant in Chicago has been run by the same family for 39 years. That's not only a big step forward. That's a real legacy. It has been feeding the neighborhood delicious zabiha halal food since 1986, located in the middle of Rogers Park, which is also known as Chicago's Little India. It's not only a place to eat. It's a place to make memories.

So how has it lasted this long?

Consistency. Dedication. To be honest, the meal is great.

Food lovers recognize this restaurant for its freshly made food, which is rich in authentic Indo-Pak spices. Since the restaurant opened, family chefs have worked here. What about the food? It still hits the same way it did in the 1980s. Imagine freshly baked Tandoori Naan and Karahi Gosht simmering on a low flame for hours before it's served on your table. It's not just about cooking. It's narrating stories with spices.

Devon Avenue: Not Just a Street

Devon Avenue is more than just a line on a map. Devon Avenue served as a haven for all Desi's who had relocated from their homeland.

This one-mile section of Chicago's West Rogers Park is a sensory overload. The air is filled with the intoxicating aroma of spices. A street full of restaurants that are adorned with vibrant colors. Sounds of Gujarati, Hindi, Urdu, Telugu, and maybe that one auntie yelling into her phone. It's lovely.

A guest stated, "This place makes me think of my childhood." The sound of people talking and the fragrance of biryani. "I feel like I'm still in Mumbai."

"Delhi Darbar Kabab House still serves the same generation today, as well as their children and grandchildren."

The Food That Brought Us Here

Let's chat about food.

The menu is both a classic and a trip. The Chicken Masala will melt on your tongue. Goat biryani that has just the right amount of saffron, a mixed platter of kebabs that is hot, spicy and Palak paneer that is just right! It is spicy, creamy, and comforting! Oh, and don't forget the samosas.

These aren't just meals. These are tales from Lahore, Delhi, Mumbai, and Karachi. Chefs preserve their authentic taste by making their own spices. They employ tandoors that use charcoal. The vegetarian menu is truly a celebration of flavors. Daal Tadka. Kofta Malai. Chana Masala. Every entree has something to offer. In a literal sense.

And it's not just about the taste. It's about being noticed. Heard. House.

Now, let's talk about this anniversary while honoring the people who made it happen.

Thirty-nine years. That's a lot. It's worth taking a break for that.

Delhi Darbar is giving its customers the royal treatment:

Tuesday Customer Appreciation: Get 20% off when you purchase $50 or more.

Nihari Wednesdays: $15 for a delectable beef nihari and two naan (takeout only)

BOGO Entrees: Buy one, get second one for 50% off (takeout only)

It's not just a sale. It's a thank you. It's for the families who have hosted their graduations, birthdays, mehndis, & broken fasts here, or just come here to feel at home after a long day.

Expect surprises during the month of the anniversary. Perhaps a dessert will be served on the house. It could be a meal from the 1980s. Maybe just a friendly "thank you" in person.

They've also decorated the place to perfection. Lights, marigolds, and memories on the wall. They really do have a "Heritage Wall" with old pictures on it.

The Place That Does It All!

It's not only a restaurant to eat at. It's a place for your special events. A home to make lasting memories!

If you are hosting a birthday? Mehndi? Graduation? They can host up to 100 guests in a private setting. And the cuisine, I can say, It's delicious!
