investors who have built significant companies, the curriculum brings a wealth of real-world expertise to participants. Notably, the course was designed by entrepreneurs who have collaborated on programs for Y Combinator and Singularity University. The GSP is committed to helping founders develop their natural abilities and hone their skills while preserving their overall well-being and life balance, promoting the art of "Being Intense without being Tense".

The program is delivered as an online course and will also be deployed as an immersive program at various institutions and incubators globally. A key differentiator of the GSP's online offering is its partnership with edSPIRIT <https://www.edspirit.com> and edX <https://www.edx.org/> the leading academic platforms for prestigious universities such as Stanford, Harvard, and Berkeley. This collaboration ensures a robust and accessible learning environment for founders worldwide.

"The Global Startup Program is more than just a course; it's a movement to inspire founders to solve the world's biggest challenges and impact the lives of millions of people," says Dr. Kal Mentak, co-founder of GSP. "We believe that by providing world-class mentorship, actionable advice, and a supportive global community, we can empower entrepreneurs to navigate the complexities of the startup world and achieve unprecedented success."

The GSP curriculum covers a wide range of crucial topics for startup founders, from idea validation and product-market fit to fundraising and scaling. Key modules include Idea Generation and Validation, Building Product Users Love, Growth Strategies, Fundraising Essentials, and Culture and Team Building. The program features a mix of animated video lectures, readings, and interactive assignments, encouraging immediate application of concepts to participants' own startup ideas.
