CLAW HUNTERS follows these daring crews as they contend with rough seas and persistent storms, who risk everything to harvest "Red Gold" — the prized lobster which fuels a multi-billion-dollar industry. From battered equipment to rough seas to sweeping winter storms, CLAW HUNTERS highlights the passion, tradition, and resilience of those who hunt for lobster in some of the most dangerous waters on earth.

"The Weather Channel is dedicated to telling powerful stories about the delicate relationship between people and the forces of nature," said Byron Allen, Founder/Chairman/CEO of Allen Media Group, parent company of The Weather Channel television network. "CLAW HUNTERS perfectly embodies this connection – a compelling, real-world adventure that showcases extreme weather, changing environments, and the incredible resilience of the men and women whose lives depend on it. We are thrilled to bring this exciting new series to our viewers."

Mark your calendars, batten down the hatches and don't miss the premiere of CLAW HUNTERS on June 15th at 8 PM ET on The Weather Channel. Prepare for an immersive journey into one of the most challenging and fascinating industries driven by nature's extreme conditions.
