About SplintFab

We are a custom orthotic and prosthetic fabricator based out of Phoenix, AZ. The company was founded by Marc and Max, both combined have over 30 years' experience in the Orthotic and Prosthetic space. Marc is the head technician at SplintFab, he started his career when he graduated from George Brown College of Orthotic and Prosthetic Technician program. Then later starting and building multiple different orthotic and prosthetic labs. Max on the other hand started in the orthotic and prosthetic industry after graduating from college on an athletic scholarship. After meeting each other in the industry, Max and Marc realized that there was a lack of communication between central fabricators and clinicians. The company was built upon solving this problem, by making sure that every product that gets built has been discussed between both parties. Which ultimately leads to successful patient outcomes.
