We're flipping the script. The people who lived it are the ones who need to be leading it. No more talking about us, at us, to us without us at the decision-making table.”

Marvin Bing, Founder of JustUs Ideas Week

"We're flipping the script," says Marvin Bing, founder. "The people who lived it are the ones who need to be leading it. No more talking about us, at us, to us without us at the decision-making table."

Both events exemplify JustUs Ideas Week's commitment to centering justice-impacted communities in reimagining safety and transformation. Throughout the week, The Philadelphia Office of Reentry Services has partnered with over a dozen community organizations to provide onsite reentry services at The Community College of Philadelphia, including onsite hiring and an expungement clinic.

The week-long gathering brings together over 3,000 attendees and 100+ speakers from around the country to Philadelphia.
