What makes PulsePro Media unique is its operational system—everything from client onboarding, meeting structure, ad campaigns, and team workflow is defined and process-driven. Sujit's goal has never been just to run a typical marketing agency; he envisions PulsePro as a true business growth partner. That's why clients from various sectors like EdTech, eCommerce, lead generation, and fantasy gaming rely on PulsePro for scaling their business profitably. The agency doesn't just build ads—it builds brands. Sujit and his team work 15+ hours a day, constantly upgrading their skills in digital marketing, creative content, and sales strategy to deliver next-level results. Their high-retention client base and increasing national recognition are proof of their consistent value delivery.

Alongside PulsePro Media, Sujit also founded Skill Doke—India's emerging digital skill development platform. While his primary focus remains on growing PulsePro Media, Skill Doke was born out of his desire to empower young Indians with practical, income-generating digital skills. The platform provides online and offline training in areas like Facebook Ads, digital marketing, and website development. Sujit's vision is to make Skill Doke India's #1 money-making skill platform, targeting youth aged 14–28. Unlike other edtech platforms, Skill Doke is not just about watching videos—it's about implementation, mentorship, and helping students truly earn with their skills.

Our mission is simple — to help Indian businesses grow faster and smarter with high-performing digital Marketing strategies.”
