2025 Rome Design Awards S2 Calling for Entries

Judging Criteria and Panel of Experts

Entries were evaluated based on five key criteria: Creativity & Idea, Planning & Execution, Aesthetic Value, Innovation & Functionality, Impact, and Memorability. The international panel of judges comprised industry-leading experts with extensive experience in architecture, interior design, product development, and environmental sustainability. The grand jury panel this year included Florian Seidl (Italy), Khaled Elnems (United Arab Emirates), Mark Turner (United Kingdom), Vasil Velchev (Bulgaria), Tiago Russo (Portugal), Bo Zhang (United States), Lichen Ding (China), and many others. Their collective expertise ensured that each submission was reviewed with precision, fairness, and an eye for quality and originality.

"The Rome Design Awards has established itself as a platform for visionary designers to gain global recognition. This year's submissions showcased not just aesthetic brilliance but also sustainable and forward-thinking solutions that push the boundaries of modern design," said Thomas Brandt, Spokesperson of the International Awards Associate (IAA). "We are thrilled to celebrate these achievements and look forward to seeing how these innovations shape the industry."
