In the new high-end digital age, consumers can now publish their coloring book, comic book, or any other book product, print on demand, and we ship directly to customers. Please note that consumers or businesses can submit AI-generated designs, said Bell. With the new print-on-demand technology, there are multiple binding options, and direct shipping through our distribution network. You can specify the book size, paper type, and binding, and your book may be sold on major online retailers and shipped to customers worldwide.

Providing print-on-demand services with options for black-and-white or full-color printing, paperback or hardcover, and direct shipping. The minimum order quantity for print-on-demand is now only 12 books, with services to handle fulfillment for direct-to-customer orders. Streamlining the process of publishing and distributing print-on-demand coloring books globally. Allowing writers and authors to sell through any book seller, website, or store, and more, with direct shipping to customers and no need for a massive inventory.
