and companies. It helps many different companies in many different industries reinvent what they do and how they do it. One example is in the small-cap and mid-cap investment space. RedChip Companies introduced their new RedChat tool. This uses AI to help investors better understand the right opportunities and the best timing.

In a recent “Jeff Kagan Interview”, RedChip CEO Dave Gentry explains his company and how AI is empowering them to become a leader in their space using AI technology.

"This is a rare growth opportunity for certain companies who see themselves as leaders or who want to be. Today, there is a real early mover advantage." said Jeff Kagan.

RedChat is the name given to RedChip's new AI tool, which helps investors research the small-cap and mid-cap stock market and conducts accurate analysis in what can be described as the blink of an eye.

RedChat helps investors use AI technology to improve their ability to choose and when to act in order to increase investment income.
