wine sponsor, Rodney Strong Vineyards, for wine tasting and by-the-glass sales as well as line dancing lessons at the Rodney Strong Wine Garden. Also new this year is a cooling tent with seating and a bar, hosted by Sonoma Clean Power; a new Kaiser Permanente Viewing Deck, accessible with upgraded ticket purchase and featuring an elevated view of the stage, access to private restroom trailers and bars, and small snacks throughout the day. The festival will also offer new options for guests to store belongings, charge cell phones and rent lawn chairs for the day.

"As successful as County Summer has been, we are always looking for ways to improve the experience for our guests,"

Drew Jacoby, an Executive Producer for Country Summer, said. "We can't wait to open the gates for this year's festival and thrill fans with an incredible line up, an expanded selection of craft food and beverage options, and games and activities for all to enjoy. We have a feeling this year will be one for the record books!"

This year Country Summer takes place on the last weekend in June, a departure from past festivals, which were historically held on Father's Day weekend. "We wanted to appeal to fans who have been unable to attend due to Father's Day obligations. We've had a great reaction to the date change." Said Jacoby.

Three-day passes to the festival are still available, starting at $225 for general admission. Single-day tickets start at $100 for general admission. Upgraded ticket options, including reserved seating, access to the "pit," and preferred parking are also available. Limited tickets remain for The Country Club, an exclusive area in Saralee and Richard's Barn with a private cash bar, indoor restrooms and a fully catered dinner offered daily. All available tickets, VIP upgrades, and parking passes can be purchased by visiting countrysummer.com. Listed ticket prices are inclusive of fees.

For those hoping to stay on festival grounds, Country Summer has limited tent and RV camping options. To purchase passes or learn more about tent and RV camping, visit countrysummer.com or contact the Sonoma County Fairgrounds RV Park directly.
