The U.S. Consumer Price Index (CPI) fell 0.1% in May, marking the first decline in over a year. This move by the Fed to cut rates by 0.25% is seen as a signal of confidence in the economy's resilience. The Fed's decision to cut rates is a key factor in the dollar's recent decline, as it reduces the attractiveness of U.S. assets. The dollar's value has fallen to its lowest level in over a year, which has led to a surge in demand for gold and other commodities.
