“We need to have important conversations from a higher perspective, embodying light, love, and enlightenment, where there is no arguing or finger-pointing,” said Ballentine. Known for his ability to engage in discussions that address complex topics related to race, politics, and spirituality, Ballentine added he wanted to create a show that engages key figures weekly, including President Donald J. Trump, focusing on solutions rather than sensationalism.

“Common Ground” is produced by award-winning media disruptors Gary Bernstein and Rick Party, who are both co-creators of this significant project. Bernstein, President of Oceanic Tradewinds, emphasizes the importance of bridging political divides: “In today's challenging and rapidly changing environment, it is crucial to bring political parties together to find common ground on divisive issues. On the heels of the successful critically acclaimed launch, “Common Ground” will air weekly every Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday at 1 pm.

“Listeners can expect enlightening discussions each week with key leaders from both political parties, as well as significant contributors from the spiritual community. We aim to provide content that expands awareness and shifts perspectives—like a refreshing breath of fresh air,”
