

The Los Angeles Tribune Launches Global Magicians Hall of Fame to Honor Magic's Legends & Unsung Architects of Awe

A first-of-its-kind news & media global hall rewriting history to immortalize the innovators, educators, and unseen heroes behind magic's greatest moments.

LOS ANGELES, CA, UNITED STATES, June 20, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- For as long as humanity

Our mission has always been to honor achievement, creativity, and human excellence. Today, we are extending that commitment into one of the most enduring art forms in history — magic.”

has gathered to be amazed, magicians have done something few others can: transform disbelief into awe. Behind every illusion that leaves us breathless lies a master of impossibility — often unseen, often unrecognized. Until now.

In a historic moment for the global magic community, The Los Angeles Tribune proudly announces the launch of the Global Magicians Hall of Fame — the first international platform created to honor not only the world's most celebrated magicians, but also the innovators, educators, and behind-the-scenes architects who have shaped the very essence of magic for generations.

With its roots in civic journalism from 1886 and a longstanding commitment to elevating underrepresented voices, The Los Angeles Tribune and Tim Wise, an award-winning entertainer, magician, author, and former business partner of Monty Hall and 10-year host of Monty Hall's Let's Make a Deal Live, unite to recognize the achievements and contributions of individuals within the field of magic — from an outsider's view.

"We're not just honoring performers. We're rewriting history."
— Moe Rock, CEO, The Los Angeles Tribune

Unlike traditional recognition programs created from within the industry, the Global Magicians Hall of Fame was born from an outsider's lens, ensuring a fresh, unbiased, and culturally significant view of the art of magic's true builders — those whose fingerprints are on every gasp, standing ovation, and child's wide-eyed wonder.

A Historic Inaugural Induction Ceremony

While details of the inaugural induction ceremony are being kept under wraps, the event will be a private gathering of industry icons, rising stars, and media collaborators in Las Vegas on July 9, 2025 — bringing together industry icons, rising stars, media leaders, and cultural influencers to mark the birth of a new global institution.

This private gathering with opportunities for VIP attendance will launch an annual tradition and international expansion plan designed to preserve, protect, and elevate the art of magic for generations to come.

More Than Awards — A Global Movement Begins

The Global Magicians Hall of Fame is not merely an award show — it is a cultural correction, a public movement, and a time capsule of human creativity.

With over a century of civic journalism and cultural leadership, The Los Angeles Tribune extends its legacy of elevating underrepresented voices and human excellence into one of humanity's most enduring art forms: magic.

Public Participation Now Open: Be Part of History

While the inaugural ceremony will be private, for the first time ever, magic enthusiasts, fans, and supporters worldwide can officially participate through the following avenues:
