Our compact home lifts redefine urban accessibility—no renovation, no hassle, just seamless vertical mobility.”

Nibav Home Lifts

The newly certified elevator series integrates European-standard safety protocols with a compact, modular design suited for existing Indian homes. With this update, Nibav reaffirms its commitment to accessible, future-ready home infrastructure without the need for major structural alterations. This announcement comes at a time when urban infrastructure in India is undergoing rapid transformation, and demand for smart, space-efficient in-home mobility is at an all-time high.

Product Overview and Industry Significance

The latest home lifts are built with a 1010 mm diameter footprint and function without requiring pits, machine rooms, or shafts—addressing common installation barriers in urban Indian residences. These lifts also hold CE certification and have undergone TÜV SÜD testing, ensuring adherence to stringent international safety benchmarks. The manufacturing and quality control process is ISO 9001:2015 compliant.

Key features of the product line include:

- Pre-engineered plug-and-play structure for quick assembly
- Six-point safety system, including emergency braking and battery backup
- Operation on single-phase power with minimal energy consumption
- No oil, counterweight, or lubrication required
- Minimal maintenance requirements with long-term durability

These features position the new series as a reliable, low-maintenance solution for homeowners seeking to improve accessibility without sacrificing style or safety.

Technological Enhancements and Connectivity

In response to increased demand for home automation, the newly launched elevators support several smart features:

- Integrated touchscreen floor panels
- Alexa-enabled voice control
- Remote diagnostics and real-time monitoring via mobile app

The elevators can be fully integrated into smart home ecosystems, allowing for greater convenience and customisation. Users can track elevator status, receive performance updates, and even schedule maintenance, all from a dedicated mobile interface.

Applications in Indian Residential Architecture

The home elevators have been adapted for use in a wide range of residential formats, including duplexes, villas, and compact urban apartments. Their ability to be installed post-construction, without heavy civil work, makes them suitable for both new and retrofit projects. This flexibility addresses a significant challenge in India's housing sector, where structural limitations often prevent the integration of traditional lift systems.

The Series IV model remains the flagship offering, featuring a glass cabin, aluminum-polycarbonate structure, and 360° visibility. All components are factory-built for precise, on-site modular installation. With its blend of engineering precision and visual appeal, the Series IV caters to homeowners looking to modernise their homes with minimal disruption.

Local Support and Service Framework

Nibav Lifts India maintains a national network of trained technicians and support personnel across major Indian cities. Services include:

- Pre-installation site assessments
- End-to-end professional installation by in-house teams
- Scheduled annual maintenance and extended warranty options

Localised service response for faster support resolution

This robust after-sales ecosystem helps ensure that every customer receives ongoing assistance throughout the product lifecycle.
