EDMONTON, ALBERTA, CANADA, June 27, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Stacey Lauren, celebrated charity fundraising auctioneer and visionary movement creator, has officially been inducted into the International Order of Fantastic Professionals (IOFP)—a global community of elite changemakers, leaders, and legacy builders. With her signature blend of humor, heart, and high-energy connection, Stacey turns fundraising into an unforgettable experience, bringing warmth, authenticity, and joy to every stage she steps onto. Her background in stand-up comedy adds a unique twist, making donors feel engaged, seen, and excited to give. Stacey is also the creator of the Do The Thing platform—a powerful system designed to help individuals and organizations build community-powered movements through deep connection and collective action. The framework gives everyone a stage, not just to participate, but to rise.

As an organization built to celebrate visionary leaders who create meaningful impact, we are proud to welcome Stacey Lauren into the IOFP.”

Every movement it sparks is intentionally structured to elevate its members, giving them a voice, a place to lead, and the confidence to take bold steps forward. Through tools like My People Parties and Do The Thing Challenges, Stacey teaches leaders how to rally their communities around a shared goal and take real action together. Her Comfort Circle Framework meets people where they are and gently moves them through fear, into clarity, courage, and leadership. These methods are now being utilized in schools, nonprofits, and purpose-driven businesses worldwide, offering new ways to build momentum, fund missions, and empower individuals to lead.
