

NaturalRefrigerants.com Launches Audio Articles on Spotify

Audio articles will soon be available on additional platforms, including Apple Podcasts and YouTube.

BRUSSELS, BELGIUM, June 23, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ --

NaturalRefrigerants.com, the world's top source for news and insights on natural refrigerant-based heating and cooling technologies, has launched audio versions of its articles on Spotify.

The articles are read by an AI-generated voice in English and represent the next step of ATMOSphere, the publisher of NaturalRefrigerants.com, into audio content. ATMOSphere's "Natural Refrigerants: State of the Industry 2024" report on commercial and industrial refrigeration was recently made available in audio format, also on Spotify.

Audio articles give us the opportunity to connect with readers who are on the go and don't have time to open and scroll through a story.”

Michael Hines, Managing Editor, NaturalRefrigerants.com

“We're excited to offer audio versions of our articles as it enables us to reach more people,” said Michael Hines, Managing Editor of NaturalRefrigerants.com. “In addition to increasing the accessibility of our content, audio articles give us the opportunity to connect with readers who are on the go and don't have time to open and scroll through a story.”

While NaturalRefrigerants.com has initially released its audio articles on Spotify, they will also be available on additional platforms, including Apple Podcasts and YouTube. In addition, the “Natural Refrigerants: State of the Industry” report was recently made available in Spanish, and news on NaturalRefrigerants.com will also be available to read in additional languages soon.

“Audio is just the first step in increasing the reach of our content,” said Hines.

"NaturalRefrigerants.com articles will be translated into Spanish, with support for other languages added at a later date."
