Ergofive Active – Comfort and Appeal Even During Rigorous Activity

Workers in the medical industry, such as nurses, dentists, surgeons, and support staff require a lot of physical movement. Similarly, construction workers, cleaners, production workers, and masseurs need clothing that allows them to move freely.

YURiNOX Workwear's 4-way stretch active joggers and women's scrubs are made of a fabric blend of polyester (94%) and spandex (6%), yielding a density of 125 g/m². The microfiber-based 4-way stretch active workwear is quick-drying and wrinkle-resistant. This prevents the clothing from looking crinkled and creased or developing patches due to sweat. In addition, such workwear is easy to care for and highly durable.

Designed for movement, built for performance—Ergofive Active delivers unmatched comfort and flexibility for demanding work environments.”

“A common problem with a lot of bending and lifting is that clothing becomes misshapen and puckered, especially around natural body folds. Additionally, high-friction fabrics can cause chafing and skin irritation. This is a problem our Ergofive Active range is designed to solve. The 4-way stretch fabric allows for free movement without these downsides. Our new collection also features non-traditional designs to help our clients' teams stand out as professionals,” explained Gleb Gamsheev, Vice President of Sales & Marketing at YURiNOX.

YURiNOX's Ergofive Active collection includes women's scrubs designed for comfort with an anatomically semi-fitted silhouette and V-neck. The blouses are available in multiple short-sleeved designs with two patch pockets on the sides or one on the chest and small side slits.

The joggers in this collection are also designed keeping functionality and comfort at the fore. They have an adjustable waistband with elastic and a drawstring. In addition, the joggers have a broad elastic ankle band to keep them in place, eliminating the need for constant readjustment. Zipper-closure packets on the sides and in front (depending on the design) offer convenient and hassle-free storage of all necessary work items. The 4-directional stretchability of the fabric means workers can work comfortably for long hours.

YURiNOX also offers customization of all workwear, including footwear, boots, vests, gear, corporate uniforms, and much more for both men and women. The company maintains an extensive inventory, ensuring that orders are fulfilled almost immediately.
