REDBARON WHOLESALE INC, a Miami-based electronics distributor, has announced that its online store 11GEEK.com now accepts cryptocurrency payments for all Apple hardware available on the platform. This move allows the company to eliminate excessive banking fees and offer significantly lower prices on premium devices.

With this update, customers can purchase flagship Apple products such as the MacBook Pro M4 Max, MacStudio M2 Ultra, Apple Vision Pro, and Apple Pro Display XDR using major cryptocurrencies. Transactions are processed securely and instantly, allowing faster cross-border payments without intermediaries.

“Accepting cryptocurrency lets us avoid traditional banking costs and pass those savings directly to our customers.” said Tian Cheek, CEO of REDBARON WHOLESALE INC.

As a result, prices across the store have been lowered, and delivery times remain consistent—typically within two to three weeks worldwide.
