

Inventor Creates New Standard in Bathroom Hygiene and Safety through His Sani-Safe Antimicrobial Disposable Bath Mat

PITTSBURGH, PA, UNITED STATES, June 24, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Eric C. of Miami, FL is the creator of the Sani-Safe Antimicrobial Disposable Bath Mat Safety System, an innovative bathmat that redefines hygiene, safety, and convenience in bathrooms. The Sani-Safe system is the first to provide a disposable, antimicrobial, non-slip bathmat solution that addresses the dangers and shortcomings of traditional mats.

Each mat is constructed using Polyethylene Vinyl Acetate (PEVA), a lightweight, eco-friendly, and chlorine-free alternative to standard vinyl. The mat also features an integrated antimicrobial agent, a specialized non-slip diamond-textured top layer, and a removable adhesive backing that grips firmly to bathtub or shower floors. The mat's 0.8 mm to 1.0 mm thickness offers reliable comfort and water dispersion without trapping moisture, thereby inhibiting mold and mildew growth and eliminating unpleasant odors.

Traditional bathmats are notorious for becoming slippery, developing foul smells, harboring bacteria, and being difficult to clean. Sani-Safe's disposable design provides a fresh, clean, maintenance-free mat that makes it ideal for homes, hotels, hospitals, assisted living facilities, boats, yachts, and travel. Its adhesive backing leaves no residue, ensuring quick setup and removal without damage to surfaces.

Key features of the bathmat include:

- Disposable Design: single use that lasts for 3 to 6 months for optimal hygiene that eliminates any need for cleaning and maintenance.
- Antimicrobial Protection: an integrated antimicrobial agent inhibits bacteria, mold, mildew, and
