At CAGR of 17.6% | Home Automation Market to Hit $239.89 Billion by 2030 - Ingresoll Rand, Schneider Electric

NEW CASTLE, DE, UNITED STATES, June 26, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- According to the report published by Allied Market Research, the global home automation market was estimated at $46.60 billion in 2020 and is expected to hit $239.89 billion by 2030, registering a CAGR of 17.6% from 2021 to 2030. The report provides an in-depth analysis of the top investment pockets, top winning strategies, drivers & opportunities, market size & estimations, competitive scenario, and wavering market trends.

Cost-effectiveness of home automation systems, increase in popularity of Internet of Things (IoT) for smart homes, and surge in concerns for safety and security drive the growth of the global home automation market. On the other hand, lack of awareness and high initial investment restrain the growth to some extent. Nevertheless, surge in adoption of automated services is expected to create lucrative opportunities in the industry.

COVID-19 scenario-

The construction, manufacturing, hotel, and tourism industries were highly affected during the pandemic, especially throughout the initial phase. Also, disrupted supply chains led to decline in manufacturing of home automation as well as their demand in the market, thereby impacting the global home automation market negatively.

However, as the overall situation gets ameliorated, the market is projected to recover soon. The global home automation market is analyzed across application, technology, end-user, and region.

Based on application, the safety & security segment accounted for the major share in 2020, holding nearly two-fifths of the global market. The entertainment segment, however, would exhibit the fastest CAGR of 19.2% throughout the forecast period.
