This is what happens when you get 3 of the best MCs on the East Coast and put them on the same track - instant classic!”

SUMiT

Blending streetwise grit with elite penmanship, "Super Nice" is a masterclass in modern East Coast hip-hop. The production opens with dramatic flair, orchestral layers, and thunderous drums, instantly setting a tone of urgency and authority. The sonic weight of the record gives each verse room to punch through with impact.

SUMiT, known for his punchline precision and elevated flow, leads the charge with a verse that blends old-school technique with a sharp contemporary cadence. His performance is confident and calculated, a lyrical tactician in full command. Dave East and Millyz follow with equally blistering verses, showcasing the chemistry and bold spirit that defines true hip-hop.

"This is what happens when you get 3 of the best MCs on the East Coast and put them on the same track - instant classic!" - SUMiT

"Super Nice" draws directly from the lineage of classic East Coast rap battles, MCs in a cypher, trading bars with no filler. It's this stripped-down, no-gimmick approach that makes the track feel both timeless and fresh. It captures the hustle, struggle, and confidence of the streets, all tied together by a relentless energy and the repeated refrain, 'I'm just being polite, baby, we super nice.'

For fans of lyric-driven hip-hop, "Super Nice" is more than just a single - it's a moment.

Supporting the audio is a music video Directed by Dom Bruno and Ripe Tangerines, which premiered on SUMiT's official artist YouTube channel on June 26th. Watch it now.
