and Operations, PCR*

Registry (PCR), the trusted online resource for discovering the nation's top lifestyle communities, has unveiled its list of the Top 10 Golf Communities of 2025, spotlighting the most sought-after communities on PCR's site for consumers seeking a golf home community. Curated from PCR's Most Popular Communities of 2025—a compilation of nearly 60 of the nation's most in-demand master-planned communities—this elite ranking highlights 10 of those communities anchored by golf courses and golf amenities that have captured the most attention from active homebuyers on PrivateCommunities.com.

“The golf communities featured in this list earned their spot by generating the highest level of interest and information requests from PCR visitors actively searching for golf course homes,” said Ben Keal, Director of Sales and Operations for PCR. “Golf communities continue to appeal to a wide range of buyers—including retirees, second-home seekers, families, and remote workers—because they offer a unique combination of recreation, natural beauty, social connection, and peace of mind. We're proud to spotlight these standout communities that exemplify the lifestyle so many of today's buyers are looking for.”

From the high desert of Arizona to the scenic shores of the Southeast, these ten standouts represent the very best golf lifestyle destinations in the country—each offering the pinnacle of golf course living from championship golf to resort-style amenities, social opportunities, and beautiful low-maintenance homes:

Top 10 Golf Communities of 2025:
