WHAT IS CROWD SHIPPING?
& how does it work?

The infographic illustrates the crowd shipping process in three steps: SENDER (represented by a box icon), TRAVELLER (represented by a person with a suitcase icon), and RECEIVER (represented by a person with a box icon). A world map in the background shows a dashed line connecting the sender and receiver locations. Below the steps, a text box explains: "Crowd shipping is a delivery model where everyday travelers carry items for others along their travel routes. Instead of using traditional courier services, senders connect with real people already going to the destination." At the bottom, there are logos for Google play, App Store, and the website WWW.DIMHUM.COM, along with the DIMHUM logo.

What is Crowdsipping

The advertisement features a man in a red shirt and blue jeans walking away from the camera on an airport tarmac, pulling a large orange suitcase. In the background, a white airplane is parked on the tarmac, and another airplane is flying in the sky. The text "earn while you" is written in a small font above the word "TRAVEL" in large, bold, red letters. At the bottom, there are logos for Google play, App Store, and the website WWW.DIMHUM.COM, along with the DIMHUM logo.
