Recognised as Europe's leading forum for professionals in educational and professional assessment, the annual E-ATP Conference provides a space for meaningful dialogue, collaboration, and exploration of the evolving assessment landscape.

Our programme reflects the depth and diversity of assessment practices across Europe."

William G. Harris, CEO of ATP

This year's theme, "E-ATP: The European Home of Assessment," with the subtheme "Building European Assessment for All," invites attendees to consider how inclusion, innovation, and partnership are shaping the future of learning, credentialing, and workforce development across the region.

The 2025 programme features a wide range of topics, including those targeted to specific types of learning and assessment applications. Sessions will offer a mix of strategic insight and practical takeaways, with opportunities to explore emerging technologies, evolving regulatory frameworks, and new approaches to fairness and accessibility in testing.

Attendees can expect keynote presentations from global leaders, dynamic panel discussions, and interactive breakout sessions designed to inform, challenge, and inspire.

"Our programme reflects the depth and diversity of assessment practices across Europe," said G. Harris, CEO of ATP-Global. "This year's sessions highlight timely topics such as AI in education, multilingual assessments, accessibility, policy developments, and innovative approaches to credentialing and workforce readiness."
