Neat's award-winning portfolio of video devices, renowned for their superior audio and video quality, is designed to enhance Zoom, Microsoft Teams and Google Meet meeting spaces across various environments.

By integrating Cyviz' software management tools, businesses will gain a unified solution for deploying, monitoring, and managing video collaboration devices across global enterprise environments, simplifying AV operations and improving reliability across global workspaces.

We are thrilled to partner with Neat, whose advanced video collaboration devices will complement the capabilities of Cyviz' Management & Monitoring Software Platform.”

"We are thrilled to partner with Neat, whose advanced video collaboration devices will complement the capabilities of Cyviz' Management & Monitoring Software Platform," says James Counter Smith, International Sales Channel at Cyviz. "Together, we're enabling businesses to deliver smarter, more intuitive collaboration experiences, empowering colleagues to seamlessly connect, no matter where they are."

Neat' devices, including their flagship Neat Bar and Neat Frame, are engineered to provide users with the best possible meeting experiences by removing barriers between in-office and remote devices.

Their Neat Pulse platform provides a centralised control of devices, extended support and warranty services, and integrations with leading business tools.

Through this partnership, Cyviz and Neat are addressing the growing need for smarter, more integrated solutions for dynamic and hybrid workforces. The combined offering will ensure that businesses can effectively manage their collaboration environments, enhance user experience and scale their collaboration workspaces with confidence.

“At Neat, we’re passionate about making video collaboration effortless and inclusive. Partnering with Cyviz allows us to bring even greater value to enterprise customers by combining our intuitive, high-performance devices with Cyviz’ powerful management platform and now, with Neat Pulse and API integration, we’re enabling even deeper visibility and control across the meeting space,” said Scott Taylor, Pulse & Platform Services Sales Specialist, UKI at Neat.

“Together, we’re helping organisations simplify deployment, streamline operations, and create more natural meeting experiences.”

Both companies are committed to delivering solutions that simplify technology deployment, enhance the user experience, and provide scalable, enterprise-grade solutions for the modern workforce.
