

LOCAL City Places Launches Community Leader Program to Empower Local Voices and Support Small Businesses Nationwide

This is about civic pride, economic support, and building lasting local networks

CHANDLER, AZ, UNITED STATES, July 6, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- LOCAL City Places, the growing platform dedicated to spotlighting and supporting small businesses in cities across the U.S., is proud to announce the launch of its Community Leader Program — a grassroots initiative designed to empower passionate residents to become ambassadors for their cities and champions for local businesses.

The Community Leader Program invites civic-minded individuals, entrepreneurs, students, and local advocates to serve as the voice and face of LOCAL City Places in their hometowns. These leaders will play a key role in connecting businesses with residents, curating neighborhood highlights, promoting local events, and driving engagement across the platform.

We're giving residents the tools, visibility, and rewards to help their city thrive — one business, one review, one connection at a time.”

“This program puts the power of local back in the hands of the people,” said Troy Warren, Founder of LOCAL City Places. “We're giving residents the tools, visibility, and rewards to help their city thrive — one business, one review, one connection at a time.”

What Community Leaders Will Do:

- Together, with the LOCAL City Places Team help onboard and support small businesses in their Community Leaders community

- Encourage residents to explore, review, and promote local spots
- Share updates, stories, and hidden gems from their city
- Serve as a trusted point of contact between LOCAL City Places and the community
- Earn generous cash, rewards, and recognition for their impact and contributions

Leaders will also receive performance-based incentives, exclusive LOCAL City Places gear, early access to new features, and potential opportunities to grow into regional leadership roles.

“Being a Community Leader is more than a title — it’s a mission,” said Warren. “Our goal is to find people who love where they live and want to see their city flourish. This is about civic pride, economic support, and building lasting local networks.”

Who Should Apply?
