

Undo Summer Skin Damage: Polaris Offers Mid-Summer Facial Rescue Treatments

Polaris Vein & Aesthetics Introduces Targeted Skin Repair Services to Refresh and Reset Summer-Stressed Skin

COLUMBUS, OH, UNITED STATES, July 7, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- With summer in full swing, many find their skin showing the visible signs of sun exposure—dehydration, dullness, discoloration, and texture changes. This July, Polaris Vein & Aesthetics invites the community to “Refresh and Reset” with a suite of advanced treatments designed to reverse summer skin damage and rejuvenate the complexion.

Whether returning from beach vacations or just soaking up the sunshine in daily life, patients are increasingly seeking ways to repair and revitalize their skin. In response, Polaris is spotlighting three proven solutions: laser skin resurfacing, RF microneedling, and physician-grade facials.

Post-summer skin repair isn't just about aesthetics—it's about supporting the skin's natural healing process”

Dr. Amanda Cooper, MD

“We see so many patients this time of year who love being outside but are concerned about how the sun is impacting their skin,” said Dr. Amanda Cooper, MD, founder and medical director at Polaris Vein & Aesthetics. “Even with sunscreen, UV exposure can accelerate signs of aging, cause pigmentation, and lead to inflammation. Our July skin rescue services are designed to correct this damage and restore skin to a more radiant, balanced state.”

Before and After: VirtueRF Microneedling at Polaris Vein & Aesthetics

The clinic's signature approach combines cutting-edge technology with personalized care, offering solutions tailored to individual skin needs. Laser skin resurfacing and radiofrequency (RF) microneedling are especially effective in:

Stimulating collagen production

Improving skin tone and texture

Reducing sunspots and uneven pigmentation

Minimizing fine lines and pore size

Paired with customized clinical facials, these treatments offer a full-spectrum path to skin recovery, helping patients transition from "sun-stressed" to refreshed and glowing—just in time for late summer events and photos.

"Post-summer skin repair isn't just about aesthetics—it's about supporting the skin's natural healing process," Dr. Cooper added. "By acting now, patients can prevent long-term effects of sun damage and maintain healthier, more resilient skin year-round."

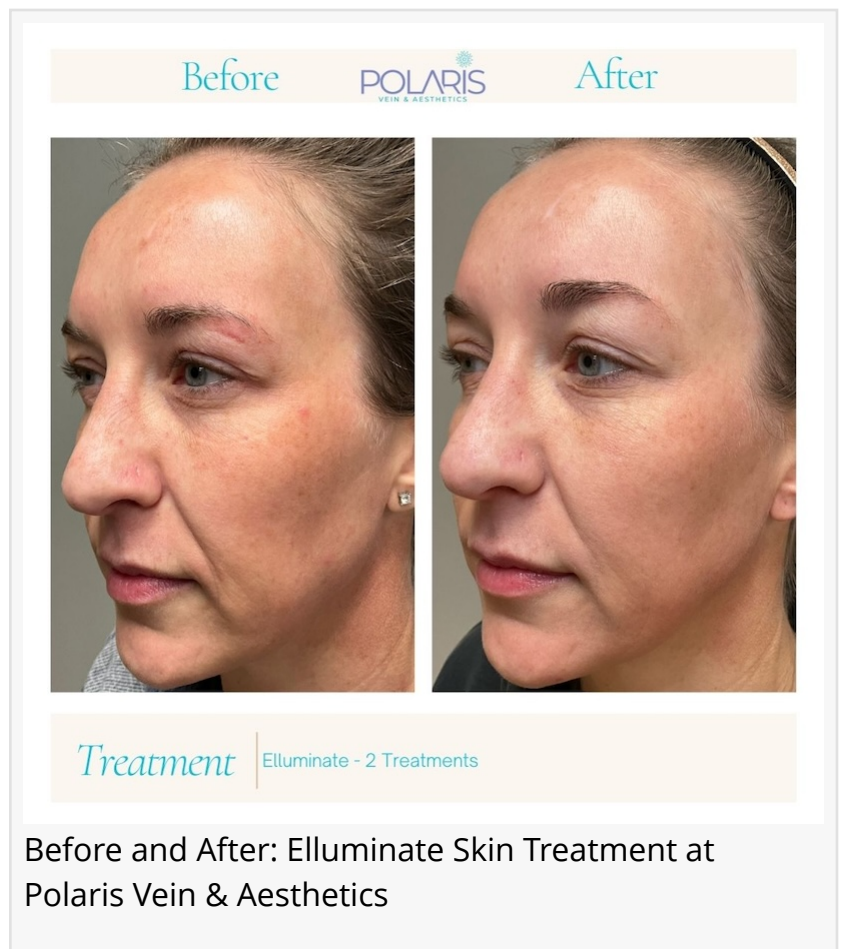

Appointments are currently being scheduled for July facial rescue services. New and returning patients are encouraged to book early, as summer treatment times tend to fill quickly.
