Patients typically experience transformation within 3 to 4 months, with an outstanding 90% success rate. The method requires no downtime and has minimal side effects, making it a highly effective alternative to surgery, especially valuable for business owners, athletes and active individuals seeking long-term joint health.

Dr. Mark Hawass's commitment to innovation, healing, and education extends far beyond his patient treatments. As a thought leader, educator, and promotor, he is dedicated to raising general awareness about the benefits of non-surgical arthritis and sports injury treatments that can drastically change quality of life. Through lectures, workshops, and media appearances, he educates both patients and healthcare providers on the latest treatments in arthritis care, sports medicine, and how to take control of their joint health.

Additionally, Dr. Hawass collaborates with leading research institutions and medical professionals worldwide to enhance his methods and delve into new possibilities in regenerative, functional, and sports medicine.
