BOULDER, CO, UNITED STATES, July 8, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Gut health has entered the mainstream, but understanding what's really going on inside your body is still too often expensive, confusing, and out of reach. Faex Health is changing that with the launch of a groundbreaking, AI-powered mobile app that provides instant, personalized gut health insights, completely free!

Faex makes gut care fast, accessible, and stigma-free by helping users understand their digestive health through simple, real-time analysis. With just a quick photo and a few short questions, the app delivers meaningful, easy-to-digest feedback. No labs, no subscriptions, no medical jargon.

"We built Faex out of pure frustration," said Landon Nattrass, co-founder of Faex Health. "We were tired of the endless cycle of vague advice, overpriced supplements, and mystery symptoms. So we built the tool we wished we had. Something fast, free, and genuinely helpful."

What Sets Faex Apart:

100% free to use

No wait times or lab visits

Real-time AI analysis

We were tired of the endless cycle of vague advice, overpriced supplements, and mystery symptoms. So we built the tool we wished we had. Something fast, free, and genuinely helpful.”

No need for subscriptions, wearables, or prior medical knowledge

While Faex doesn't replace medical professionals, it empowers users to take the first step in understanding what's happening in their gut before reaching for supplements or scheduling an appointment with a specialist.

Designed for Real Life

From college students dealing with stress-induced bloating to parents managing hectic routines, Faex is built to meet users where they are. The app helps users track symptoms like bloating, fatigue, or brain fog and see patterns over time putting control back in their hands.

The Future of Gut Health

Gut health is connected to everything from mood and energy to skin and immunity. Faex is on a mission to normalize gut care by making it approachable, informed, and stigma-free. As Natrass puts it, “Everyone poops. Everyone deserves to understand what that means.”

Faex Health is now available on the App Store and Google Play.
