

Collagen Peptides Market is Projected to Reach USD 1.3 Billion by 2035, Driven by Health & Beauty Trends

Collagen peptides market to reach USD 1.3 billion by 2035, driven by rising demand for beauty-from-within products, joint health, and functional nutrition.

ROCKVILLE, MD , MD, UNITED STATES, July 8, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The global market for collagen peptides is on a rapid growth trajectory, expected to reach USD 1,301.8 million by 2035, up from USD 702.3 million in 2024, reflecting a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 5.8% between 2025 and 2035.

This expansion is propelled by multiple converging trends: the rise of “beauty-from-within” nutraceuticals, increased focus on joint and skin health, and broader application across functional foods and beverages. Collagen peptides have gained widespread validation for skin elasticity, bone strength, and exercise recovery, motivating their deeper integration across supplements, cosmeceuticals, and clean-label segments.

With proven benefits in skin elasticity, bone strength, and muscle recovery, collagen peptides are increasingly featured in functional foods, beverages, and nutraceuticals. Clean-label trends, aging populations, and the growing adoption of clean-label products in sports and cosmeceutical applications globally further reinforce the market’s relevance.

Leading Players Driving Innovation in the Collagen Peptides Market:

Prominent players in the market are Amicogen, Inc., BioCell Technology, LLC, Weishardt Holding SA, Vital Proteins LLC, PB Leiner, among others.

Regional Insights

North America, particularly the U.S., is a leading market, with strong acceptance of collagen supplements for menopause, gut health, and musculoskeletal support. Health professionals increasingly recommend these products, further fueling sales.

Europe displays rising interest in sustainable marine-derived collagen, with a premium placed on traceability and scientific support—appealing to discerning consumers in Germany, France, and the Nordics.

Asia Pacific stands out as an innovation hub. Japanese and Korean brands are pioneering beauty-nutritional integration, while China's e-commerce platforms rapidly expand collagen product distribution.

Despite robust growth, the market faces critical challenges: uncertainty around optimal dosage recommendations, inconsistent labeling standards, and limited inclusion in clinical guidelines continue to hinder full clinical adoption and consumer confidence.
