“Dr. Breitbart combines technical depth with real-world execution in drug development, including late-stage work and manufacturing,” said Dr. Max Herzberg, Executive Chairman & CEO of Vidac Pharma. “He’s also a strong collaborator, which fits well with the Vidac culture.”

In parallel, Vidac Pharma is preparing to pursue a listing on a major German stock exchange and will begin the process of seeking regulatory clearance from BaFin, the German Federal Financial Supervisory Authority. This move is intended to expand the company’s access to international capital markets and support its next phase of development.

These steps reflect Vidac Pharma's commitment to building a robust foundation for scaling its pipeline of proprietary drug candidates that reverse the Warburg effect—restoring cellular metabolism and reshaping the tumor microenvironment to help overcome treatment resistance.
