Supporting a Broad Vision of Health and Wellbeing

This year's winners and finalists represent a diverse range of services and specialisms, from sensory deprivation therapy and clinical hypnotherapy to community-based fitness programmes and workplace wellbeing initiatives. Each has demonstrated a clear focus on addressing real-world health challenges - whether through early intervention in mental health, personalised fitness coaching, or support for vulnerable communities.

The 2025 Health and Wellness Awards recognise organisations and individuals who are not only delivering quality services, but who are also building trust, improving access, and responding to complex wellbeing needs with practical, evidence-based solutions.

Altaris Business Awards congratulates all those recognised this year for their commitment to better health outcomes, inclusive practice, and continuous development within the wellness sector.
