Veritas is an approved provider for ESA fund allocation in these states. ESAs provide parents with an authorized, publicly funded savings account for educational expenses. These funds can be used tax-free for a variety of academic needs, including school tuition, tutoring, online education programs, and instructional materials. Each state operates its own unique ESA program, offering flexibility for families. Veritas curriculum can also be covered by other options like school choice funds and tax credit programs on a state-by-state basis.

"As we continue to expand our involvement in these programs, we are excited to see more families gain access to vital resources that support their children's education," said Dr. Bob Cannon, Headmaster of Veritas Scholars Academy. "The opportunity to use ESA and School Choice funds allows parents to make the best educational decisions for their children, and Veritas is dedicated to making these options available in as many states as possible to empower families with more choice and flexibility."

Programs like these provide parents flexibility for a wide range of options, so they can choose a learning setting that aligns with the student's needs. These funding choices help offer parents greater control over their child's education, empowering them to choose the most suitable educational path.
