

Hubbell Trading Post Road Show Comes to Petroglyph National Monument July 19 and 20

Browse Navajo art and jewelry in this immersive celebration of Navajo art, culture and tradition.

PHOENIX, AZ, UNITED STATES, July 8, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Western National Parks (WNP) hosts a two-day cultural event at Petroglyph National Monument, featuring the iconic Hubbell Trading Post National Historic Site on Saturday, July 19 and Sunday, July 20, from 9 AM to 4 PM both days. Visitors can browse one-of-a-kind pieces, support Indigenous artists and the national parks, and learn the intricate stories of this work.

This event is the last in the summer series, featuring the opportunity to experience the rich traditions of Navajo culture through authentic weavings, fine silver and turquoise jewelry and live cultural demonstrations—all against the stunning New Mexico backdrop of Petroglyph National Monument, located in Albuquerque. The event will take place in the courtyard of the Visitor Center.

Remaining at the heart of the road show are Navajo trader Wallace James

Jr and weaver Tonita Yazzie. James will offer talks at 10 AM and 2 PM each day, sharing stories of Navajo art, history, and heritage. James has a lifelong connection to Hubbell Trading Post. Yazzie will provide weaving demonstrations throughout both days and give talks about the art of
