Release Date: August 9, 2025

Christophe J. A. Ranque announces the upcoming release of "Parenting the New World: Giving Birth to a Thriving Humanity", launching August 9, 2025. This visionary 444-page book offers a blueprint for humanity's next evolutionary leap, positioning parenting as a universal mindset to heal and unify the world.

About the book

Drawing on over 30 years raising 11 children, Christophe presents 11 core teachings that expand parenting beyond family to global civilization. The book invites readers to view humanity as a living organism — a "Body of Nations" — where cooperation, respect, and spiritual connection build a thriving future.

"I have the intuition that Humanity is like a living organism with its own design, and that this design is inherently analogous to the human body — the most advanced form of living organism developed over millions of years on our Planet. (p. 319)

"Parenting the New World" explores:

- The Parenting Revolution: learning from children to improve education and life.
- The 9 Principles of Natural Education: milestones for raising the next generation.
- The Body of Nations: reimagining society as a living organism of cooperation.
- Preparing for the Galactic Era: humanity's readiness for cosmic citizenship.
